TRACT LET FOR HARDINSBURG AND GARFIELD PIKE

000 Estimated Cost for 7.2
iles. - Improvements To Be ade on Cloverport Pike.

have been completed for the ing of good roads in Breckinridge ay and work will begin at once.
ical Court, at a called meeting week, let the contract for building 7 2
of pike from Hardinsburg to Gar-via Harned. The contract was let th & Crahan, the lowest and only
ers. The prices were: for earth ex-on, 23 cents per cubic yard; rock ation, $1 per cubic yard; for un-ng, hauling, spreading and rolling,
cents per cubic yard.

Judge Dowell said it was hard to esti-
late just what it would cost per mile.
He thought the seven miles could be built for something near $28,000. The Judge was very enthusiastic over the matter and said it was one of the best moves ever made in the direction of securing good roads for the county; that it was only an initial move for a movement which would permeate the whole county.
He said the people were now thoroughly convinced of the importance of good roads
over the county and from every nook and corner came the cry for better roads.
Regarding the Hardinsburg and Cloverport pike, the Judge stated that work would begin on it and it would be put in first-class condition. Then when the seven miles to Garfield had been finished there would have been nearly 20 miles of good pike completed this year. The next move, he said, would be to complete the gap between Garfield and Big Spring and this would give an intercounty seat road to Elizabethtown and the Dixie Highway.

Judge Dowell made it known that some of the best citizens in the Southern part of the county were making plans to build a road to McDaniels and from there to the Grayson county line. Arrangements were also being made for the construction of an inter-county-seat road from Hardinsburg to Hartford.

This sounds mighty good for good roads. It is a move that means something. It means a better system of roads for the whole county. Judge Dowell and the Fiscal Court are to be congratulated.
Now let every man, woman and child in the county get behind Judge Dowell and the contractors and give them a "boost." It's a great move and should be kept going. Don't be a knocker, but be a booster, and as Bro. Meng said in his speech in Cloverport:

"Boost and the world boosts with you,
Knock, and you are on the shelf
For the world gets sick
Of the one who kicks--"

Do you know that it takes enthusiasm to do anything in this world? You have to have your heart and soul in the work at hand and this is as true of good roads building as it is of any other important movement.

The contractors doing the work are home people. They are men of high character and standing and are entitled to a fair profit. They are not grafters, but good, honest workmen so they need the cooperation and a boost in their work.

Good roads is what is wanted. It is the only salvation for progress and prosperity, not for a few, but for the whole people.
Be a hooster.

Red Cross Headquarters At the County Fair.

The Cloverport Chapter of the Red Cross Society will have a tent on the grounds at the County Fair in Hardins-burg this week. The tent will be equipped as a rest room and the membership campaign committee will be there to take names of those in the county who desire to become members of the Red Cross Society.

Young Girls Foot it to the "Burg."

Members of the Friendship Circle, were in for doing something out of ordinary, concluded to go on a hike to Hardinsburg.
The hikers who were: Misses Louise Berholt, Addie McGavock, Martha Wald, Emily Reid, Mary Owen Olive
and Louise Nicholas, left here at five
p. m. and reached their destination at nine a. m., a distance of ten miles.
The girls wore attractive khaki suits made military style. They spent the day and night in Hardinsburg. Mrs.

Herbert Beard and Miss Mary La Rue Beard gave a slumber party in their honor. They hiked home Friday morning.

One Little Soldier Injured While Playing War.

Roy Charles McKaughan and Roscoe Kinder had all of the thrills of a real war while at play Thursday afternoon.
The youngsters invented a novel imitation of a gun by putting a blank cartridge in a vise and placed an iron rod near enough to the cartridge so that by throwing stones and hitting the rod it gave out a report like the youngsters imagined that Uncle Sam's gun-boat sent out when they were firing at a German sub marine.

Just as they were in the thick of the fight the enemy, which happened to be Roy Charles, was over-come and thought he was killed when a stray piece of the shell flew up and hit him on the end of the nose. The blow caused a profusion of blood but the little soldier pulled through and he was willing to declare peace.

Nearly Ninety-three at Time of Death.

Mrs. Clementine Banc, who was nearly ninety-three years of age, died Thursday night at the home of her son near Mystic, Ky. Mrs. Banc had been an invalid for some time.

The funeral services were held Friday
by Rev. I. C. Argabright. Burial took place at Walnut Grove cemetery.

Double Wedding.

Two prominent young couples, Mattingly, Ky., surprised their friends on July 7th by going to Cannelton, Ind.,
where they had a double wedding.
The couples were: Miss Jessie May Brickey and Mr. J. D. Mings. Miss
Bessie Brickey and Mr. Hardy Lee Walker.

The brides are sisters. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Brickey of Mattingly.

Mr. Mings is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mings. Mrs. Walker,
sister of Mr. and Mrs. Hardin Walker.
Both young men are prosperous farmers
living at Mattingly.

Kendrick-Ewing.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carnes Kendrick of Louisville have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Willie Carnes Kendrick and Benjamin Franklin Ewing.

The wedding will take place on the evening of July 26th at 8:30 o'clock at the Broadway Methodist church.

Street Improvement on East and West End of City.

The City Council let a contract several weeks ago to have crushed rock and screenings put on the streets: the one in the East end leading to the Pike and in the West end which leads to the Dukes road.

The rock covers about one fourth of a mile on each road, filling up some of the terrible mud-holes and ditches and has added greatly to the improvement of these two main thorough fares.

Electric Current to be Furnished During Day

The Cloverport Ice Company has announced that they will inaugurate an all day current service beginning July 20th for their patrons.

The numerous electric appliances
that are used in the offices and homes to insure comfort, can now be installed and run at a very low cost.

Interesting Pictures of Rainier National Park at the American Theatre.

To paraphrase the quotation of Mohammad—"The Mountain is brought to the American Theatre," on Saturday, July 21, in two reels of the most impressive scenery ever presented to a moving picture audience.

The film is spiced with many exciting incidents of a day in Rainier National Park, Washington. The Mountain, which is the highest peak in the United States, towers skyward for nearly three miles.

The picture is brimmed with interest and shows nature where she is grandest. The ingenious creations and settings of stage craft have no part in this interesting reel, as Mount Rainier is a subject beyond the conception or execution of a Griffith or Belasco.

"OVER THERE"

The Thrill and Hell of the Trenches De- scribed by an American Boy

We have secured a series of six articles by Sergeant Alexander McClintock of Lexington, Ky., and the Canadian army. He has a gripping tale that every American will read, for he tells the facts, unadorned. Wounded, a Distinguished Conduct medal man, he was invalided home, but is going "Over There" again to fight for Uncle Sam and his allies.

Feb. 14, 1917.

Sergeant Alexander McClintock served in the Eighty-seventh Battalion Canadian Grenadier guards from September, 1915, until November, 1916, the last four months of that time at the front in France, where he gained the Distinguished Conduct medal by his devotion to duty and bravery under fire.

As his former commanding officer I can testify as to his good qualities, and I consider he would make a valuable officer.

Bramshott.

McClintock's terrible experience.

NO. 4.—Shelled to the Somme. Sergeant McClintock takes part in the greatest of all battles and tells of the hell of it. "The front in Belgium was really a rest sector

tensive preparations of the allies for open warfare afterward abandoned because of the failure of expected developments.

the series relates in detail how England cared for the wounded. How the king and

Arnold-Morrison Wedding

The marriage of Miss Bessie Lee Arnold and Mr. Homer J. Morrison was solemnized, Thursday evening, July 12th, at the home of the brides parents,

Market, Louisville.

The couple entered to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Bertha Perkins.

The ring ceremony was used and was performed by Rev. Miller, in the presence of the family and a few friends.
Immediately after the ceremony, Mr.

The Modern Siamese Twins.

The howl of anguish set up by the Courier-Journal when the toes of old J.
B. Corn were stepped on with no light pressure by Congress, likens them to the famous Siamese twins. Give one a punch and it brings pain to both. The attitude of the Courier-Journal leads one to believe that instead of modifying its phrase, "no Democrat can be a prohibitonist" it is willing to go a step further and say no American can be a prohibitionist.

The Courier-Journal ridicules the partnership of "Me and Gott" and denouces the Kaiser's plans for world-leadership, but is perfectly willing to hand over the nation to King Boose, who has brought more death and destruction than could be dealt out by a dozen Kais-ers.

If the war brings nothing more to us than the death of old J. B. Corn, then future generations may rise up and call the Kaiser blessed.—La Rue County Herald.

Mrs. G. W. Short of Durant En- tertains With Basket Luncheon

Mrs. G. W. Short, ever alert to the novel and the new, and who has so often proved herself an adept in the act of entertaining and dispensing true hospitality and genuine pleasure, again delighted eighteen of her friends with a dainty, well appointed and an enjoyable "Basket Luncheon"

The home was elaborately decorated for this occasion, Mrs. Short welcoming her guests into a veritable bower
of spring-baskets filled with pink "Dorthy Perkins" roses such as are grown in this city and section, and such beautiful baskets! So many of them, and every one different. Each basket illuminating its own loveliness more lovely by contrast with its mates. Tall pedestals of white on which rested baskets vases filled with flowers added their quots to complete the splendor of the decorations.

The dining room was quite the loveliest imaginable with the table bearing in its center a large basket of long stemmed Dorothy Perkins roses, while suspended above this was a beautiful ivory basket filled with clusters of the same beautiful ramblers.

The basket idea was observed throughout the luncheon. The delicious menu was served in baskets, platters and plates of maple wood. The salad forks and other accessories featured the same idea apropos of the basket luncheon. It was well planned and beautifully carried out.

In the afternoon bridge was the feature choseu with which to entertain the guests. This held sway for two hours and were greatly enjoyed. At the conclusion Mesdames Allen and Alakeney was awarded the prizes, each a lovely May basket. Each lady was given a souvenir basket of the occasion.

Altogether the luncheon proved a splendid success and the pleasing hospitality of the hostess will not be forgotten.

Misses Priscilla Utterback and Ruth Jarrell in their own sweet way assisted the hostess in serving.
Those thanking Mrs. Short were:
Mesdames V. B. Hayes, W. E. Utterback, E. C. Terrell, Chas. Allen, Prince

IRVINGTON TO BECOME BRANCH RED CROSS

Of Cloverport Society. Suf- frage League Holds Interest- ing Meeting.

Irvington, July 15, (Special)—The Irvington Suffrage League at their regular meeting last Friday, projected several plans for community work.

The women voted to make application to the Cloverport Chapter of the Red Cross Society for a branch Chapter for Irvington. The women showed a great deal of interest in the work while they were at a preliminary meeting at the home of Mrs. W. J. Piggot.

Miss Margaret Conniff was appointed to have charge of the work. Those interested in the work are to communicate with her. The business men of Irvington will be urged to give their support. The membership fee is from one dollar up, a per cent of which is kept at home to furnish supplies for work.

Acting upon requests received for demonstrations in conserving food; a committee was appointed to find out if there is sufficient interest to justify the department of Agriculture in sending a demonstrator to this point. Miss Eva Carrigan, the local Chairman of the National League for Woman's Service will have the matter in charge.

Members of the Suffrage League expressed interest in knowing how the various candidates for Senate and Representatives stand on the subject of justice to women. That indirect influence which women are credited with exercising in such matters is sure to become direct influence in the future.

Potato Seed Sell for $10 a Thimble Full.

Dr. F. S. Clark brought a valuable specimen of a potato vine into the News office Monday morning. The vine had on the end of it, what looked very much like a tiny green tomato but it was the pod where the seed of the potato comes from. There are not more than half a dozen pods on the vine and each pod holds a very few seed which are even smaller than a tomato seed. The seed sell for $10. a thimble full.

Dr. Clark hopes to have several thimbles full.

U. S. WILL INSURE ALL ITS FIGHTERS

Experts Devising Plan to Compensate For Injuries In War.

BENEFIT FOR DEPENDENTS

Scheme Will Make It a Tax on the Whole People, Says Insurance Man. The Treasury, War, Navy and Commerce Departments Are Working on It to Avoid Evils of Pension System.

Following a conference in Washington with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, a committee of prominent insurance men have drawn up a plan for pensions or compensation for casualties in the war, which will be submitted to congress.

The details are to be worked out in co-operation with the secretary of the treasury and officials of the war, navy and commerce departments, as well as the Council of National Defense. It was said they will conform as closely as possible to the principle of the workmen's compensation law.

To give some idea to soldiers, their families and the public of what the government, aided by the insurance men, was trying to work out, the head of one of the large companies, who deprecated any idea of self advertisement and therefore did not wish to be quoted by name, outlined the basis on which the experts are working.

"The government," he said, "is interested in putting something through in this matter that will be a happy solution of a difficult problem. It decided to appoint a committee of actuaries, with the agreement that the insurance companies would help the government. It is not life insurance that is sought. It is casualty insurance or, better still, it is compensatory insurance."

"That Uncle Sam is a great big employer was the idea finally agreed on by the insurance and casualty 'chemists' down in Washington, and the proposed insurance will in effect be a death benefit for the dependents of those who succumb in action."

To Avoid Evils of Old System. "The government, you see, is very eager to do something to avoid pensioning as it has formerly existed, to avoid the evils of the old pension system. What it wants to work out is compensatory insurance. Age has nothing to do with it. It isn't life insurance."

"Of course the companies might have gone into a pool or a bureau, and the government would be sending out checks after proof, but the great desire now is to simplify the whole matter."

"In short, it is proposed to put the pension plan on a workman's compensation basis. Of course it is up to congress, but I think it will go right through without a hitch. Mr. McAdoo stated what was wanted on behalf of the president, and the companies are willing to lead to the government their expert service, their statistics, etc. They have very recent statistics from Canada, where a great deal of insurance is carried."

"The government and the representatives are in co-operation to develop the simplest possible plan, such a one as is being carried out by big business through the workmen's compensation."

"The workmen's compensation law interposes between the workmen and the hazards of labor. By this plan it is desired to interpose between the soldier and the hazards of war. The plan when finally worked out may be varied, according to the condition of the family of a soldier. It might be a matter of compensation by installments."

Will Be a Tax on Whole People.

"The principle of the workmen's compensation is being recognized by the United States in this war. The government says: 'We'll meet the necessary tax to compensate, and it will be a tax on the whole people. It will be just the same as if the problem arose in a bridge factory, a shoe factory or on a railroad. We'll tax ourselves. Here's a whole army going up against these hazards, and some must meet them.'"

"Such acceptance of this principle amounts to a social evolution. It would be a victory to have it accepted without debate, and with this compensation principle granted and accepted the ground is covered for this war. It will help volunteering, for the volunteers nearly all have dependents and the drafted have not. It simply shows what a great democracy does for itself in this emergency."

"Such a system would supplement a soldier's per diem. His dependents would get his compensatory damages. That is why the government wants the plan crystallized in advance. The plan will probably be uniform, without regard to previous occupation."

Lum McCoy, Cloverport, says: "Some few years ago, I was badly troubled with my kidneys. For quite awhile I suffered with a lame and aching back. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and were highly colored. I found it especially difficult and painful to bend over or try to lift anything. As I had often heard of Doan's Kidney Pills I used a few boxes which I got at Fisher's Drug Store and they cured me."

A YOUNG MAN WITH A VISION.

We are indebted to Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Howard and their son, Jesse, for a trip in their car from Glen Dean to McQuady last Saturday. We passed through some mighty good farming lands owned by mighty good farmers. Their crops all looked fine, clean, well-tilled and right up to date.

Jesse Howard, Jr., is a young, enthusiastic farmer and is taking a great interest in his work. He believes in his work. He studies and works and has a vision that his land can be made to produce just what he wants it to produce if given the right kind of treatment. Jesse is sure to make good if he follows the plans he has laid out.

A MORNING PRAYER.

The day returns and brings us the petty round of irritating concerns and duties. Help us to play the man, help us to perform them with laughter and kind faces; let cheerfulness abound with industry. Give us to go blithely on our business all this day, bring us to our resting beds weary and content and undishonored; and grant us in the end the gift of sleep. Amen.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Mr. Edward Gregory has received a letter from a friend of his from "no telling where" in France. In speaking of his potato crop, said he had sold his surplus crop of Irish potatoes for 2 cents a pound. His letter was dated June 21st. At that time potatoes over here were selling at 8 cents a pound. In other words, some things are evidently cheaper in France than in Cloverport.

"Live as usual" is the most patriotic and practical slogan, after all; for when you begin to hoard your money and live too economically you are making business slack and at the same time throwing some poor person out of a job. Live as you have always lived if you can afford it.

Cloverport has given eighty-five dollars toward the Red Cross fund in one week's time. At that rate we ought to be able to give five hundred and ten dollars in six weeks which will not be too much for us to contribute to such a magnanimous work.

Uncle Sam needs 1700 bakers and 500 cooks. It has been stated that the flat footers will be accepted now to serve in either one of these capacities as it does not require as much walking as being a regular soldier.

The New York Sun has started a Tobacco Fund for our Soldiers in the Trenches. Thus far they have raised $13,717.21. This will supply the million soldiers that will be there, with tobacco only a few days.

In spite of the war and the high cost of living, folks will get married. Possibly the price of a marriage license hasn't advanced and most newlyweds rarely ever see beyond that.

Charlie Chaplin has been signed by the First National Exhibitors Circuit for a series of eight pictures for which he will receive $1,075,000, according to an official announcement.

Edward Green, son of the late Mrs. Hettie Green, who was recently married to Miss Mabel Harlow, gave his bride a wedding gift of $625,000. $185,000 of it in Liberty Bonds.

The fall models for men's suits will be without pockets. What is to become of that awkward youth who doesn't know what to do with his big hands?

The second Liberty Bond Loan will open September 15. This will be a three billion dollar loan with interest at 3½ per cent and probably more.

Mr. Babbage sends greetings on his birthday to his friends both old and young. He will be seventy-two, Saturday, July 21.

MAKING GASES LIQUID.

Knowledge of the "Critical Temperature" Solved the Problem.

In regard to the boiling points of liquid, there is an upper limit to the point at which a thing boils—that is, changes to the state of vapor. It is called the critical temperature. No matter how great a pressure exists on a substance, if it is at a temperature greater than its critical it will change to vapor anyhow.

The ignorance of this point held back the making of liquefied gases—such as air, carbon dioxide, etc.—for many years. The experimenters tried to liquefy gases at ordinary temperatures by enormous pressures, whereas if they had just cooled the gases below their critical temperatures before applying the pressure liquefaction would have ensued immediately.

This is the method employed today in making liquid air. The air is compressed at first and then allowed to issue from a small orifice, thus expanding and cooling; is then pumped back and compressed by the pump, allowed to go through the orifice again, thus cooling still more, until at last it is below the critical temperature, when the compression caused by the pump liquefies it.

BEEFLESS DAYS FOR N. Y. HOTELS

"War Bread" to Be Served; Less Butter and Fats Used.

PORK WILL BE CURTAILED

Most Breakfast Rolls Will Be Baked of Other Than Wheat Flour—Toast as a Garnish to Meat Dishes Is to Be Eliminated—No Cheese For Free Lunch Counters.

Suggestions for one beefless day each week, with the serving of "war bread" at every meal and a radical curtailment in the use of pork products and all butter and fats, have been made to Herbert C. Hoover, prospective national food administrator, by the New York City Hotel association. If the plan is approved by Mr. Hoover—and it was devised along lines suggested by him in his food conservation announcements—patrons of New York hotels will probably have their first beefless day in the near future. At the same time menu cards will contain announcement of the inauguration of one day each week on which no beef will be served and of curtailment in the service of other products in which conservation of existing supplies is necessary.

The scheme was presented to Mr. Hoover by Thomas D. Green, president of the Hotel association, and John McE. Bowman, in co-operation with Patrick V. Kyne, James Churchill and H. E. Taylor, representing the Society of Restaurateurs. The Hotel association represents 105 hotels, which serve about 200,000 meals each day, and the Society of Restaurateurs includes in its membership all of the big restaurants of Broadway and many of the smaller ones in other parts of the city.

Tentative regulations governing the plan have been arranged and probably will be made permanent. They are: First.—Individual service of bread and butter of uniform weight, the rolls to weigh from one to one and one-fourth ounces.

Second.—At least 10 per cent of other flour to be used in making wheat bread and rolls.

Third.—Most breakfast rolls will be baked of other than wheat flour.

Fourth.—Stale bread and toast trimmings are to be made into "war bread" for guests and employees.

Fifth.—Elimination of rough bread, which requires more butter than smooth bread.

Sixth.—Elimination of toast as a garnish to meat dishes.

Seventh.—Discourage the use of fresh pork.

Eighth.—Broiling, roasting, braising and stewing is to be encouraged and frying discouraged to conserve butter and lard.

Ninth.—Service of veal, lamb and suckling pig to be discouraged.

Tenth.—Beef to be eliminated one day each week other than Friday.

Eleventh.—Cheese is to be removed from free lunch counters.

Twelfth.—The use of sea food, fresh vegetables and fruits is to be encouraged.

The "war bread" which is to be baked in the hotels is based on a simple recipe and can be made by any housewife. It is: On the basis of a butter tub of stale bread, crusts, etc., add ten quarts of water and ten ounces of salt; soak thoroughly and strain through a flour sieve. For this quantity use one-half pound of yeast and enough flour to make a very stiff dough.

DRAFT BUSIES PRINTERS.

Government Workers Kept Busy by Rush Jobs.

The draft has burdened the government printing office with the biggest task it has ever undertaken.

Here are some of the printing jobs it has been working on: Thirty million blanks, affidavits and forms for use of the local exemption boards.

Five hundred thousand copies of the exemption regulations of about 100 pages each.

For the registration the printing office turned out 27,000,000 registration cards and 18,025,000 certificates.

Nearly 175 different blank forms are needed for the draft.

Over twenty-one tons of mail matter concerning the draft has been mailed out of the offices.

GENERAL KORNILOFF NEW IDOL OF ALL THE RUSSIANS

Hero of Successful Offensive in Galicia Was Born in a Log Cabin.

Russia is ringing with the name of the latest hero of the war, Lieutenant General L. G. Korniloff, victor of Galicia, whose astonishing feats first proved that the new advance is no mere flash in the pan. General Korniloff is the most daring, chivalrous and scholarly officer in the army. For a romantic rise from humble origin Russian history has only one parallel—that of Michel Vassilievitch Lomonosoff, fisherman's son, poet, philosopher, creator of the modern Russian language, in the first half of the eighteenth century.

From log cabin to general is the literal text of the chronicle of General Korniloff's career. Born forty-six years ago, son of a needy stricken Kamalinsk Cossack in western Siberia, who later reared a large family on a pittance gained as the village clerk, young Korniloff early began rough forest work. At the age of nine he received his first instruction. When barely thirteen he by his own exertions and all night studies qualified to enter the Siberian Cadets' corps, largely composed of sons of local men of affairs. Thanks again to his own efforts this indomitable Siberian pioneer character gained free training at the Michailovsk Artillery school, where his amazing mathematical faculties brought approval from the authorities, even though he was suspected, with reason, of being a secret revolutionary.

Next General Korniloff was an officer in the Guards and, being penniless, was obliged to serve in Turkestan. In the Japanese war he received the rank of colonel and was intrusted with a desperate mission—that of covering the retreat from Mukden of one of General Kuropatkin's shattered armies. It was executed with such resolution and skill that he received the St. George cross. Later he traveled all through Turkestan, the Caucasus and Europe, studying, observing and writing invaluable books on Turkestan and the countries of central Asia.

SERGEANT MCCLINTOCK.

No. 2. The Bomb Raid

By Sergeant Alexander McClintock, D. C. M., 87th Overseas Batt., Canadian Gren. Guards.

Copyright, 1917, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Sergeant McClintock is an American boy of Lexington, Ky., who has seen service in France, was decorated for bravery, wounded, invalided home and now is returning to accept a commission. This is the second article in the series. In the first article he described his training up to the point where he reached the front line trenches.

WHEN we took our position in the front line trenches in Belgium we relieved the Twenty-sixth Canadian battalion. Scouts from that organization came back to the villages of Dinkelsbusch and Reminghelst to tell us how glad they were to see us and to show us the way in. As we proceeded overland, before reaching the communication trenches at the front, these scouts told us the hospitable attention due strangers—that is, one of them, leading a platoon, would say:

"Next 200 yards in machine gun range. Keep quiet, don't run and be ready to drop quick if you are warned." There was one scout to each platoon, and we followed him single file, most of the time along roads or well worn paths, but sometimes through thickets and rugged fields. Every now and then the scout would yell at us to drop, and down we'd go on our stomachs, while away off in the distance we could hear the "put-put" of machine guns, the first sound of hostile firing that had ever reached our ears.

"It's all right," said the scout. "They haven't seen us or got track of us. They're just firing on suspicion."

Nevertheless, when our various platoons had all got into the front reserve trenches, at about two hours after midnight, we learned that the first blood of our battalion had been spilled. Two men had been wounded, though neither fatally. Our own stretcher bearers took our wounded back to the field hospital at Dinkelsbusch. The men of the Twenty-sixth battalion spent the rest of the night instructing us and then left us to hold the position. We were as nervous as a lot of cats, and it seemed to me that the Germans must certainly know that they could come over and walk right through us, but outside of a few casualties from sniping, such as the one that befell the Fourteenth platoon man, which I have told about, nothing very alarming happened the first day and night, and by that time we had got steady on our job. We held the position for twenty-six days, which is the longest period that any Canadian or British organization has ever remained in a front line trench.

In none of the stories I've read have I ever seen trench fighting as it was carried on in Belgium adequately described. You see, you can't get much of an idea about a thing like that making a quick tour of the trenches under official direction and escort as the newspaper and magazine writers do. I couldn't undertake to tell anything worth while about the big issues of the war, but I can describe how soldiers have to learn to fight in the trenches, and I think a good many of our young fellows have had to learn now. "Over there" they don't talk of peace or even of tomorrow. They sit back and take it.

We always held the fire trench as lightly as possible, because it is a demonstrated fact that the front ditch cannot be successfully defended in a determined attack. The thing we did and the thing to do is to be ready to jump on to the enemy as soon as he has got into your front trench and is fighting on ground that you know and he doesn't and knock so many kinds of tar out of him that he'll have to pull his land for a spot that isn't so warm. That system worked first rate with us.

During the day we had only a very few men in the fire trench. If an attack is coming in daylight there's always plenty of time to get ready for it. At night we kept prepared for trouble all the time. We had a light sentry on each firing step and a man sitting at his feet to watch him to see he wasn't secretly sniped. Then we had a sentry in each "bay" of the trench to take messages.

Orders didn't permit the man on the firing step or the man watching him to leave post on any excuse whatever during their two hour "spell" of duty. Hanging on a string, at the elbow of each sentry on the fire step was a siren whistle or an empty shell case and a bit of iron with which to hammer on it. This, whichever it might be, was for the purpose of spreading the alarm in case of a gas attack. Also we had sentries in "listening posts," at various points from twenty to fifty yards out in "No Man's Land." These men blackened their faces before they went "over the top" and then lay in shell holes or natural hollows. There was always two of them, a bayonet man and a bomber. From the listening post a wire ran back to the fire trench to be used in signaling. In the trench a man sat with this wire wrapped around his hand. One pull meant "All O. K.," two pulls, "I'm coming in," three pulls, "Enemy in sight," and four pulls, "Sound gas alarm." The fire step in a trench is a shelf on which soldiers stand to look out and shoot between the sand bags on top.

In addition to these men, we had patrols and scouts out in "No Man's Land," the greater part of the night, with orders to gain any information possible which might be of value to battalion, brigade, division or general headquarters. They reported on the condition of the Germans' barbed wire, the location of machine guns and other little things like that which might be of interest to some commanding officer twenty miles back. Also they were ordered to make every effort to capture any of the enemy's scouts or patrols, so that we could get information from them. One of the interesting moments in this work came when a star shell caught you out in an open spot. If you moved you were gone. I've seen men stand on one foot for the thirty seconds during which a star shell will burn. Then when scouts or patrols met in "No Man's Land" they always had to fight it out with bayonets. One single shot would be the signal for artillery fire and would mean the almost instant annihilation of the men on both sides of the fight. Under the necessities of this war many of our men have been killed by our own shell fire.

The Daylight Hour.

At a little before daybreak came "stand-to," when everybody got buttoned up and ready for business because at that hour most attacks begin, and also that was the regular time for a dose of "morning and evening hate," otherwise a good, lively fifteen minutes of shell fire. We had some casualties every morning and evening, and the stretcher bearers used to get ready for them as a regular matter of course. For fifteen minutes at dawn and dusk the Germans used to send over "whizz bangs," "coal boxes" and "minniewefer" (shells from trench mortars). In such a generous way that it looked as if they liked to shoot 'em off, whether they hit anything or not. You could always hear the "heavy stuff" coming, and we paid little attention to it, as it was used in efforts to reach the batteries back of our lines. The poor old town of Dinkelsbusch got the full benefit of it. When a shell would shriek its way over, some one would say, "There goes the express for Dinkelsbusch," and a couple of seconds later, when some prominent landmark of Dinkelsbusch would disintegrate with a loud detonation, some one else would remark:

"Train's arrived!"

About the only amusement we had during our long stay in the front trenches was to sit with our backs against the rear wall and shoot at the rats running along the parapet. Poor Macfarlane, with a flash of the old humor which he had before the war, told a "rookie" that the trench rats were so big that he saw one of them trying to eat his greatcoat. They used to run over our faces when we were sleeping in our dugouts, and I've seen them in milow graves of the dead. Most of the soldiers' legs are scarred to the knees with bites.

The one thing of which we constantly lived in fear was a gas attack. I used to wake in the middle of the night in a cold sweat dreaming that I heard the clatter and whistle blowing all along the line which meant that the gas was coming. And finally I really did hear the terrifying sound, just at a moment when it couldn't have sounded worse. I was in charge of the daily ration detail, sent back about ten miles to the point of nearest approach of the transport lorries to carry in rations, ammunition and sand bags to the front trenches. We had a lot of trouble returning with our loads. Passing a point which was called Shrapnel Corner, because the Germans had precise range of it, we were caught in machine gun fire and had to lie on our stomachs for twenty minutes, during which we lost one man, wounded. I sent him back and went on with my party, only to run into another machine gun shower a half mile farther on. While we were lying down to escape this, a concealed British battery of five inch guns, about which we knew nothing, opened up right over our heads. It shook us up and scared us so that some of our party were now worse off than the man who had been hit and carried to the rear. We finally got together and went on. When we were about a mile behind the reserve trench, stumbling in the dark through the last and most dangerous path overland, we heard a lone siren whistle, followed by a wave of metallic hammering and wild tooting which seemed to spread over all of Belgium a mile ahead of us. All any of us could say was:

"Gas!"

All you could see in the dark was a collection of white and frightened faces. Every trembling finger seemed awkward as a thumb as we got out our gas masks and helmets and put them on, following directions as nearly as we could. I ordered the men to sit still and sent two forward to notify me from headquarters when the gas alarm was over. They lost their way and were not found for two days. We sat there for an hour, and then I ventured to take my mask off. As nothing happened, I ordered the men to do the same. When we got into the trenches with our packs we found that the gas alarm had been one of Fritz's jokes. The first sirens had been sounded in the German lines, and there hadn't been any gas.

Our men evened things up with the Germans, however, the next night. Some of our scouts crawled clear up to the German barbed wire, ten yards in front of the enemy fire trench, tied empty jam tins to the barbed wire and then, after attaching small telephone wires to the barbed strands, crawled back to our trenches. When they started pulling the telephone wires the empty tins made a chatter right under Fritz's nose. Immediately the Germans opened up with all their machine gun and rifle fire, began bombing the spot from which the noise came and sent up "S O S" signals for artillery fire along a mile of their line. They fired a 10,000 salute and lost a night's sleep over the noise made by the discarded containers of 5 shillings' worth of jam. It was a good tonic for the Tommies.

The Prince of Wales.

A few days after this a very young officer passed me in a trench while I was sitting on a fire step writing a letter. I noticed that he had the red tabs of a staff officer on his uniform, but I paid no more attention to him than that. No compliments, such as salutes to officers, are paid in the trenches. After he had passed one of the men asked me if I didn't know who he was. I said I didn't.

"Why, you d— fool," he said, "that's the Prince of Wales!"

When the little prince came back I stood to salute him. He returned the salute with a grave smile and passed on. He was quite alone, and I was told afterward that he made these trips through the trenches just to show the men that he did not consider himself better than any other soldier. The heir of England was certainly taking nearly the same chance of losing his inheritance that we were.

After we had been on the front line fifteen days we received orders to make a bombing raid. Sixty volunteers were asked for, and the whole battalion offered. I was lucky—or unlucky—enough to be among the sixty who were chosen. I want to tell you in detail about this bombing raid, so that you can understand what a thing may really amount to that gets only three lines or perhaps nothing at all in the official dispatches, and, besides that, it may help some of the young men who read this to know something a little fuller about bombing.

When the Little Prince Came Back I Stood to Salute Him.

The sixty of us chosen to execute the raid were taken twenty miles to the rear for a week's instruction practice. Having only a slight idea of what we were going to try to do, we felt very jolly about the whole enterprise starting off. We were camped in an old barn, with several special instruction officers in charge. We had oral instruction the first day, while snappers dug and built an exact duplicate of the section of the German trenches which we were to raid—that is, it was exact except for a few details. Certain "skeleton trenches" in the practice section were dug simply to fool the German aviators. If a photograph taken back to German headquarters had shown an exact duplicate of a German trench section suspicion might have been aroused and our plans revealed. We were constantly warned about the skeleton trenches and told to remember that they did not exist in the German section where we were to operate. Meanwhile our practice section was changed a little several times, because aerial photographs showed that the Germans had been renovating and making some additions to the trenches in which we were to have our frolic with them.

We had oral instruction, mostly during the day, because we didn't dare let the German aviators see us practicing a bomb raid. All night long, sometimes until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning, we rehearsed that raid, just as carefully as a company of star actors would rehearse a play. At first there was a disposition to have sport out of it.

"Well," some chap would say, rolling into the hay all tired out, "I got killed six times tonight. S'pose I'll be eight times tomorrow night."

One man insisted that he had discovered in one of our aerial photographs a German burying money, and he carefully examined each new picture, so that he could be sure of finding the dough and digging it up. The grave and serious manner of our officers, however, the exhaustive care with which we were drilled and, more than all, the approach of the time when we were to "go over the top" drove all sport out of our minds, and I can say for myself that the very thought of the undertaking as the fatal night drew near sent shivers up and down my spine.

A bombing raid, something originated in warfare by the Canadians, is not intended for the purpose of holding ground, but to gain information, to do as much damage as possible and to keep the enemy in a state of nervousness. In this particular raid the chief object was to gain information. Our high command wanted to know what troops were opposite us and what troops had been there. We were expected to get this information from prisoners and from buttons and papers off of the Germans we might kill. It was believed that troops were being relieved from the big test show up at the Somme and sent to our side show in Belgium for rest. Also it was suspected that artillery was being withdrawn for the Somme. Especially we were anxious to bring back prisoners.

In civilized war a prisoner can be compelled to tell only his name, rank and religion. But this is not a civilized war, and there are ways of making prisoners talk. One of the most effective ways—quite humane—is to tie a prisoner fast, head and foot, and then tickle his bare feet with a feather. More severe measures have frequently been used—the water cure, for instance—but I'm bound to say that nearly all the German prisoners I saw were quite loquacious and willing to talk, and the accuracy of their information, when later confirmed by raids, was surprising. The iron discipline which turned them into mere children in the presence of their officers seemed to make them subservient and obedient to the officers who commanded us. I mean, of course, the privates. In this way the system worked against the fatherland. Captured German officers, especially Prussians, were a nasty lot. We never tried to get information from them, for we knew they would lie, happily and very intelligently—well instructed in the art.

At last came the night when we were to go "over the top," across No Man's Land, and have a frolic with Fritz in his own happy home. I am endeavoring to be as accurate and truthful as possible in these stories of my soldiering, and I am therefore compelled to say that there wasn't a man in the sixty who didn't show the strain in his pallor and nervousness. Under orders we discarded our trench helmets and substituted knitted skullcaps or empty mess tins. Then we blackened our hands and faces with ashes from a camp fire so as to avoid being seen as long as possible. After this they loaded us into motor trucks and took us up to "Shrapnel Corner," from which point we went in on foot. Just before we left a staff captain came along and gave us a little talk.

"This is the first time you men have been tested," he said. "You're Canadians. I needn't say anything more to you. They're going to be popping them off at a great rate while you're on your way across. Remember that you'd better not stand up straight, because our shells will be going over just six and a half feet from the ground where it's level. If you stand up straight you're likely to be hit in the head, but don't let that worry you, because if you do get hit in the head you won't know it. So why in h— worry about it? That was his farewell. He jumped on his horse and rode off.

The Bomb Raid.

The point we were to attack had been selected long before by our scouts. It was not, as you might suppose, the weakest point in the German line. It was, on the contrary, the strongest. It was considered that the moral effect of cleaning up a weak point would be comparatively small, whereas to break in at the strongest point would be something really worth while. And if we were to take a chance it really wouldn't pay to hesitate about degrees. The section we were to raid had a frontage of 150 yards and a depth of 200 yards. It had been explained to us that we were to be supported by a "box barrage," or curtain fire, from our artillery to last exactly twenty-six minutes—that is, for twenty-six minutes from the time when we started "over the top" our artillery, several miles back, would drop a "curtain" of shells all around the edges of that 150 yard by 200 yard section. We were to have fifteen minutes in which to do our work. Any man not out at the end of the fifteen minutes would necessarily be caught in our own fire, as our artillery would then change from a "box" to pour a straight curtain fire covering all of the spot of our operations.

Our officers set their watches very carefully with those of the artillery officers before we went forward to the front trenches. We reached the front at 11 p. m., and not until our arrival there were we informed of the "zero hour"—the time when the attack was to be made. The hour of 12:10 had been selected. The waiting from 11 o'clock until that time was simply an agony. Some of our men sat stupid and inert. Others kept talking constantly about the most inconsequential matters. One man undertook to tell a funny story. No one listened to it, and the laugh at the end was enunciated and gushed. The tension was driving us all into a state of funk. I could actually feel my nerve oozing out at my finger tips, and if we had had to wait fifteen minutes longer I wouldn't have been able to climb out of the trench.

About half an hour before we were to go over every man had his eye up the trench, for we knew "the rummies" were coming that way. The rum gaug serves out a stiff shot of Jamaica just before an attack, and it would be a real test of temperance to see a man refuse. There were no prohibitionists in our set. Whether or not we got our full ration depended on whether the sergeant in charge was drunk or sober. After the shot began to work one man next me pounded my leg and bellowed in my ear:

"I say, why all this red tape? Let's go over now."

That nigger of rum is a life saver. When the hour approached for us to start the artillery fire was so heavy that orders had to be shouted into ears from man to man. The bombardment was, of course, along a couple of miles of front so that the Germans would not know where to expect us. At 12 o'clock exactly they began pulling down a section of the parapet so that we wouldn't have to climb over it and we were off.

There are six articles in this remarkable series by Sergeant McClintock. Two have already been printed, and the third will appear soon. It is the most interesting one of the series thus far and is entitled:

"Over the Top and Give 'em Hell!"

The English "Tommy" battle cry as he breaks from his trench. The bomb raid and what happened. Of sixty that started forty-six failed to return because the Germans had prepared a surprise for them. Graphic description of Sergeant McClintock's terrible experience.

Hoover Says American Woman May Win the War

Herbert C. Hoover, in the August Woman's Home Companion, says:

IT MAY WELL BE that the women of America will play a deciding part in the great war. Every woman who presides over a household will be asked to come in as an actual member of the food administration. We do not ask that the American people should starve themselves, but that they should eat plenty, wisely and without waste.

Regulations Tell of Men Drawn Who Will Receive Exemption In Draft

Rules Laid Down by President Give Local Boards Exact Instructions to Follow In Every Case

Men Who Have Dependents, Office Holders, Munition and Mail Workers Are Some Who Will Be Out of It

THESE CLASSES EXEMPT STATUS MUST BE PROVED

These classes are exempt from draft upon proof of their status: Men indispensable to industries necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment or the national interest.

Men with wives, children, parents, brothers or sisters dependent solely upon them for support. Members of recognized religious sects whose creed forbids bearing arms, students of divinity, ordained or regular ministers.

Legislative, judicial and executive officers of the United States or the states of the Union.

Men in the army or navy of the United States.

German and aliens who have not taken out first citizenship papers.

Workmen in the armories, arsenals and navy yards of the United States and men engaged in the transmission of the United States mails.

Pilots and mariners in the merchant marine of the United States. Criminals convicted of felonies.

THE regulations which will guide the local boards in deciding who will be exempt and who will not after the names have been drawn for the draft have been very comprehensively laid down by President Wilson. Only 625,000 men are to be called—an army of 500,000 and 125,000 reserves—but army officers argue that the additional men should know in advance of the likelihood of summons to service. After the selection has been made the men will probably be called to the colors Sept. 1.

The regulations issued prescribe more speedy work than had been expected. Three days are allowed to the local boards to make up their lists, ten days for physical examinations and ten days for hearing claims to exemption.

Call Not by Alphabet.

Those on the registration lists are not to be called alphabetically, but serially. The cards turned over to the local boards are numbered consecutively as received. Within three days after this has been done notices are to be mailed to the first third of the list requiring them to report for physical examination on the morning of the fifth day following, for the second third to report on the sixth day and for those remaining to report on the seventh day.

To make it possible to examine the number of men who will appear in such populous communities as New York, for example, one examining physician in addition to the one who belongs to the local board is to be named if the number to be examined on any one day shall exceed eighty, two if the number exceeds 120, with others in like ratio. One member of the board other than the medical member must be present at each examination, and no member or physician may serve where the person to be examined is of nearer kin to him by blood or marriage than second cousin.

A registered man who may be absent from his home area on the day he was notified to appear must make application, "supported by satisfactory proof," for examination before another board. If a registered man is ill he must give proof of this, one affidavit at least coming from a licensed physician, and in such cases the local board may require examination by one of its own physicians. Those who do not furnish such proof within ten days are to be "recorded as physically qualified."

Classes of Exemptions.

The regulations tell the circumstances in which persons may be exempted. The classes include officers of the United States and of the several states, territories and the District of Columbia; ministers of religion, students of divinity, persons in the military or naval service of the United States, subjects of Germany residing in the United States and all other resident aliens who have not taken out their first papers.

Emphasis is laid on the fact that "the statement on the registration of any such person that exemption is claimed shall not be construed or considered as the presentation of a claim for exemption." These claims must be made in the form of affidavits or such other evidence as may be required by the local boards within ten days after the physical examinations.

Officers who may claim exemption are defined as including "any legislative, executive or judicial officer." These must name and describe the offices they hold, the dates on which they were elected or appointed and when their terms of office expire.

Ministers who may claim exemption must be "duly ordained" or "regular." They must file affidavits "giving the name of church, religious sect or organization" in which they have been ordained or to which they belong, giving the dates of their ordination or the beginning of their ministry. Each affidavit must be accompanied by two supporting affidavits from heads of families living in the local area and belonging to the minister's church, sect or organization.

"A duly ordained minister of religion," the regulations say, "is a person who has been ordained in accordance with the ceremonial, ritual or discipline of a church, religious sect or organization established on the basis of a community of faith and belief, doctrines and practices of a religious character, to preach and to teach the doctrines of such church, sect or organization and to administer the rites and ceremonies thereof in public worship, and who as his regular and customary vocation preaches and teaches the principles of religion and administers the ordinances of public worship as embodied in the creed or principles of such church, sect or organization."

Preachers Not Ordained.

A regular minister is one who "as his customary vocation preaches and teaches the principles of religion of a church, sect or organization of which he is a member without having been duly ordained as a minister of religion and who is recognized by such church, sect or organization as a regular minister." Neither of these classes include those who "irregularly or incidentally preach and teach." Students of divinity to claim exemption must have been enrolled in a recognized theological or divinity school on May 18 last and must present supporting affidavits by the president, dean or head of the school.

"Persons in the military or naval service of the United States" embraces those within the classes defined at the time of the registration. Germans and "all other resident aliens who have not taken out their first papers" come within the mandatory rules of exemption. As to the former it is added:

"No subject of Germany residing in the United States, whether he has taken out his first papers or not, will be accepted for service. When in the opinion of a local board any person called for service is a subject of Germany, whether he has or has not declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States or whether he or some other person in respect of him has or has not filed a claim of exemption, he shall be exempted and a certificate of exemption issued to him."

Not all exemptions allowed by the local boards will be absolute. "No exemption shall continue when a cause therefor no longer exists," the regulations declare, and when the cause ceases the certificate is to be revoked. The provost marshal general is empowered to name representatives, who may take appeals from the local boards to the district boards, which are to sit in New York city and in each federal judicial district. Appeals from district boards may be taken to the president, and individuals have the same right of appeal that the provost marshal general has.

Subject to Discharge.

This right of appeal covers discharges as well as exemptions. Discharges must be applied for within seven days after notice to appear for examination has been mailed. The classes who may obtain discharges include custom house clerks, persons employed in the transmission of the mails, artificers and workmen employed in the armories, arsenals and navy yards of the United States, persons employed in the service of the United States designated by the president to be exempted, pilots, mariners actually employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the country.

With the exception of pilots, who must have affidavits from the collector or deputy collector of the port from which they regularly sail—all these persons must submit affidavits from responsible officers that they cannot be "replaced by another person without substantial material loss of efficiency in operation or administration" of the service in which the applicant may be employed.

The regulations affecting "those in a status with respect to persons dependent upon them for support which renders their exclusion or discharge desirable" require 8,500 words for their setting forth. Applications for discharge under these heads may be made by the man himself, by the dependent or by some person acting for him. The classes are the following:

"Any married man whose wife or child is dependent upon his labor for support." Such a man must present, within ten days after filing a claim for discharge, an affidavit signed by him, giving his name, age and place of residence; the name and place of residence of his wife; the name(s), age(s) and place of residence of his child or children, if any, and stating that he is a married man, the husband of said wife, the father of her child or children; that such wife, child or children is (are) dependent upon his labor for support as the term "inher" is used in the rules and regulations; that his income from which such wife and child, or children, received such support was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor and was not mainly derived from property or other sources independent of his mental or physical labor.

A supporting affidavit must be given by the wife, in which she sets forth "the approximate amount of her separate income and the independent income of their child or children during the last preceding year, exclusive of any sums received from her husband and exclusive of any gifts to her or her child or children, the same being merely the income derived from the separate or independent income property of, or property held in trust for, her, the child or children."

When a wife files a supporting affidavit it must be upheld by an affidavit from a head of a family residing in the local area. When a wife does not support, but herself makes application for a husband's discharge she must cover the same ground and have two supporting affidavits from heads of families residing in the local area, unless the wife lives outside this area, in which case the affidavits may come from the area in which she lives.

When neither the wife nor the husband makes the application it may be made by some one "personally well acquainted with such husband and his wife, child or children," who has "personally made an investigation of the sources of income of the wife." The person filing such an application must present therewith the marriage certificate or a certified copy of it, or submit the affidavits of two persons who were present when the marriage took place.

Similar procedure must be followed in the case of "any son of a widow dependent upon his labor for support," and in the case of the "son of aged or infirm parent or parents dependent upon his labor for support," for the "father of a motherless child or children under sixteen years of age dependent upon his labor for support," and for the "brother of a child or children under sixteen years of age who has (have) neither father nor mother and is (are) dependent upon his labor."

What Labor Is.

"Labor" is defined in this way: "For the purpose of these rules and regulations 'labor' shall be construed to mean bodily or mental exertion. It may be either physical or intellectual; it may be professional, mechanical, commercial, clerical or agricultural, and each of these forms of labor may exist under modifications or in combination with each other. The means for the support of the dependent or dependents must be produced by this labor, whatever its character. It need not be wholly produced from it, but it must be mainly so. A dependent receiving support from a person whose income is derived from dividends or rents cannot be said to be dependent upon his labor, but if that income were entirely the fruit of professional or physical toil then such person would be dependent upon his labor."

"For the purpose of these rules and regulations," it is added, "by the term 'aged or infirm' parent or parents is meant those persons who from old age and infirmity are disabled from earning the means of supporting themselves and who by reason of such age or infirmity have become dependent for the means of support upon the person in respect of whom the claim is made."

"If any person claiming exemption or discharge shall file affidavits in support thereof, one such affidavit should contain the statement that he binds himself to report at once in person to the local board by which he was called and notify it whenever the conditions entitling him to exemption or discharge cease to exist."

Conscientious objectors must, within ten days after filing their claims, present affidavits setting forth:

That the applicant "is a member in good faith and in good standing of a well recognized religious sect or organization (giving the name thereof) organized and existing May 18, 1917, and whose then existing creed or principles forbid its members to participate in war in any form, and that the religious convictions are against war or participation therein, in accordance with the principles of said organization."

Must Support Contentions.

This must be supported by an affidavit from the clerk or minister of the organization, and "in case any such person substantiates in the opinion of the local board his claim, such local board shall issue a certificate stating that such person shall not be required or compelled to serve in any capacity except in some capacity declared by the president to be noncombatant."

"Those found to be morally deficient" are to be discharged "upon presentation by any person to the local board by which he was drawn for service of a certificate of the clerk of any court of record in the United States showing that the record of such court discloses that such person was at a time stated convicted of felony and sentenced in such court."

The district boards provided for are to have reviewing powers for the most part. They will, however, have original authority in the matter of "all questions or claims for including or excluding or discharging persons arising under the following provisions of the act of congress authorizing the president to exclude or discharge persons engaged in industries, including agriculture, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment or the effective operation of the military forces or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency."

All claims of this sort must be supported by affidavits setting forth that the applicant "is actually engaged in a particular, designated industrial enterprise necessary to (any of the three things stated in the act); that his continuance therein is necessary to the maintenance thereof and that he cannot be replaced by another person without direct substantial material loss and detriment to the adequate and effective operation of the enterprise in which he is engaged."

McDANIELS

The farmers are very busy this week thrashing wheat.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tom Bradley were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Butler, West View Sunday.

Farm and Stock.

W. R. Moorman & Son sold to Wm Ormsby, Macon Miss., a fine Roan Follied Durham Bull for $200.

Sam Morgan, Falls of Rough, has 55 acres of wheat that will thresh out 500 bushels, good corn crop, plenty of grass and clover. Mr. Morgan makes specialty of Duroc Jersey Hogs. He will have some fine specimens on sale this fall.

J. F. McGary & Sons shipped a fine load of hogs last week.

H. H. Norton, Webster, shipped a load of cattle and hogs, Monday.

Israel Holder shipped, Monday, a lot of lambs and cows.

Vic Robertson wants mules.

A fine rain last Sunday made everybody feel good and forget their troubles. It was general over the county and will do a world of good. Crops are all clean and ready to drink in the precious rain drops. Corn, tobacco and natives have taken on new life and vigor and you can almost see them grow.

Farmers are not rushing their wheat to market. $2 a bushel does not appeal to them at the present stage of the market.

W. N. Pate sold recently his two farms on Clover Creek. One of 183 acres to W. L. Keenan, for $3000, and one of 400 acres to Sam T. Rice, Louisville, for $4,250. Mr. Pate says he sold these farms through a small want ad in the Breckinridge News.

SUBMARINES IN WARFARE.

Only Men of Iron Nerves and Quick Decision Can Work Them.

"It calls for men of iron nerves and quick decision to man our submarines either in peace or war," writes Frank E. Evans in St. Nicholas. "Submarine experts look upon the factor of nerves as the most important of all, and they have given to it the title of calculation."

"Within the cramped walls that are the home of the crew are housed the most intricate mechanisms that man has invented for warfare. Outside its steel walls are mines, great nets of wire, explosives, shells and seaplanes, all devised for its destruction, and the sharp keels of ships that slice through them as a knife cuts cheese. The smallest shell can penetrate them, and nets can hold the submarine as helpless as a child in the grasp of a giant."

"Danger lies everywhere for the tiger of the seas. The ocean in which it lives is a powder tank that waits but for a spark. Only nerves of iron can cope against such an army of enemies. The slightest hesitation of its captain in the face of any of them means the end of his ship and his crew."

"As an expert has put it, the whole A B C of submarine warfare is to act at an instant's warning with nerves of steel."

MEASURING A DRAFTED MAN.

He Must Come Up to Specifications Given Below to Be Accepted.

The doctors who examine the men for the draft army must follow the table given below for weight, height and chest measurements, all chest measurements to be taken on a level just above the nipple:

Height.	Weight.	Chest Measurements.
Feet.	Inches.	Pounds.
5-1-12	61	118

6-3-12	75	190
6-4-12	76	197
6-5-12	77	204

64 and under 68	2	10
68 and under 70	2	12
70 and under 72	2	15
72 and upward	2	20

To be acceptable men below sixty-four inches in height must be of good physique, well developed and muscular.

Variations in weight above the standard are not disqualifying unless sufficient to constitute obesity. Unless exceptionally well proportioned men above six feet six inches in height should be rejected.

His Bit.

Two hundred acres of wheat on the Oren Smith farm at Valley Center, Kan., now being thrashed, are averaging fifty bushels of high grade wheat to the acre. Farmers say this is a Kansas record. Seven measured acres yielded sixty-eight bushels to the acre.

Business Has Been

Fine in England

B. C. Forbes says in the August American Magazine:

"Thousands, even millions, of families find themselves richer than they had ever dared to hope. The possession of surplus wealth is a novel sensation to them, and it is natural that they should want to procure the comforts, conveniences and luxuries this wealth can buy, even though they are appealed to from every billboard and pulpit and newspaper to save their money and buy war bonds. The consequence is that pianos, phonographs, low and medium-priced jewelry, silk raiment, custom-made suits, expensive shoes, fine cigars, the better grades of foods, motorcycles, and even low priced automobiles, are bought more extensively than in times of peace, while, it must in truth be added, the consumption of drink in England and Scotland increased lamentably."
